Gentlemen and Lady:

FYI. We are well into our planned program of managing our freight costs.

The information below was unavailable until we hired Andrea Sitler. We now have this and are making decisions based upon this information. Even those areas on which the information is incomplete, we are able to trace the problem to its source and resolve it for the future.

Our next step is to require that MTS provide us with the same kind of data.

“Andrea was a pleasure to work with. She had brilliant ideas to improve the quality of business and knew exactly how to implement and keep them running smoothly. She came into an office that was beyond out-dated technically and together we put in place very basic, but effective low cost systems that greatly improved the quality of the operation. Andrea can see where problems exist and quickly find ways to improve and implement new processes to solve these issues for a smoother operation. She would be an asset to any company searching for an innovative mind with anticipation of improving and growing their business successfully.”

“White Dove Art was a new business struggling with how to get the end product to the buyer at a reasonable cost. BPAC handled our transportation needs - both large and small. Art work takes special care and unique handling. They did a wonderful job! My customers were very happy with the extra value services offered of crating and uncrating, in house delivery and set up. Even returns were a breeze. Her delivery people were courtesy, on time and professional. Even our out of country sales were handled without hassle. Hated to see them out of business but Andrea handled that issue for us as well.”

Top qualities: Expert, On Time, Creative

White Dove Art hired Andrea as a Logistics / Transportation Provider in 1999, and hired Andrea more than once

“After the close of BPAC, Andrea recommended the services of the QE Consulting Group. She knew our transportation needs and provided an easily usable solution for my shipping department. Her trucking matrix allows us to quickly find the most cost effective solution based on speed of service, service area and added value services needed. She provides us semi-annual updates so that our information is always current. Andrea has trained my staff on damage control, damage claim processing and proper packing techniques. Her services come highly recommended and we count on her continued service for all our transportation / logistics needs.”

Top qualities: Good Value, High Integrity, Creative

White Dove Art hired Andrea as a Business Consultant in 2003, and hired Andrea more than once

“I worked with Andrea in the Product Resources Group of Kubota Tractor. Andrea brought a level of functional knowledge of Distribution and Logistics that made her truly the Subject Matter Expert (SME) in the Corporation. Her analytical skills were critical for the company to explore new opportunities in reducing costs in a complex global logistics network. Andrea is not only a professional that enhances ones organization but a true Team member.”
