Andrea Sitler is a fantastic consultant. She is our most flexible and well-rounded professional. I can send her to any client and she fits in. She is well versed, highly educated and very knowledgeable. She knows when to ask for help and when to stand her ground. I have many clients that have asked for her by name. Her repeat cliental is exceptional.

Andrea is sent out to charm CEOs, owners and board members. Her charm and charisma capture them while her intelligence and logic speaks to their needs. Her ability to relate to all levels within a corporation as well as her hands-on style; makes her a friend to the workers. She is as at home in a boardroom presentation as she is on a loading dock, in a factory, in a chemical plant or refinery, on the oil field or behind the wheel of a semi training a green driver. She is one in a million!

In 1999, Andrea assisted my firm on an as need basis under the recommendation of my father, her boss at BPAC. As BPAC diminished, her role as a consultant increased. Andrea was sought after by BPAC's competition but she had no desire to work for them. A role she did come to fill was as an advisor to these various companies, which she brought to RRE. Alone they were too small to afford her services but as a collective group; it balanced out for them all. January 2003, Andrea became a full-time consultant and team leader being shared between RRE and BEST. Currently, she and her team have more work than even Andrea could handle. Her energy is beyond compare. The more challenging the task; the more driven she becomes.

Assignments ranged from computer installs to business mergers. Andrea handled DOT and OSHA audits, regulatory training, set up safety programs, trained drivers to safely handle the "big rigs", trouble shot businesses, executed business turnarounds, handled change management procedures, new system installs, software implementations and training, financial consulting, loss prevention, business growth and development, identification of niche market and various other services too numerous to mention. Her degrees and years of experience formed a very well rounded and versatile professional. She is a definite asset to the company.

Andrea can recruit and assemble a team with less than 2 days notice. She always knows where to find the best talent and how to get them to say "yes". She is an excellent negotiator and highly ethical. She works for the best interest of all parties. As an environmental steward, she initiated programs and helped make even environmentally disliked companies become viewed by the community in a new light.

RRE is consolidating under the B.E.S.T. Consulting group as of June 1. Please welcome Andrea and her team.
